short time the greatest mining country in the world.

The mining development of Alberta will change Alberta into one of the great agricultural provinces to one of industry and agriculture.

And by reason of its location this in turn will make Edmonton one of the great cities of the world.

MINERAL EMPIRE
Mr. Creer has pointed out that only about 10 per cent of Canada is fit for agricultural purposes and that in the remaining 80 per cent, the Canadian mineral bearing empire.

A Canadian shales extends for approximately 250 miles northwest of Edmonton, from the town of Hinton to the town of Grande Prairie. It is the largest mineralized region in the world. Its surface has been mapped and it has been estimated that it has already taken place in 1937 some 100 million dollars of work in the province.

It is a mineral production of 100 million dollars every day in the year. In 1937 the production was only 25 million dollars.

GROWING INDUSTRY
The primary farm products exported in 1935 totaled 236 million and the primary mineral products valued at 210 million.

In 1935 the mineral production exceeded the value of the field crops. The mining industry, during the last three years, has increased its production every one and one-half billion dollars.

These mines have nothing in common with the mines of the past. They are not the mines of the past. They are the mines of the future.

It took $200,000,000 to put the first mine into production, but it took $100,000,000 to put the second mine into production.

It took $100,000,000 to put the third mine into production, but it took $50,000,000 to put the fourth mine into production.

It took $50,000,000 to put the fifth mine into production, but it took $25,000,000 to put the sixth mine into production.

It took $25,000,000 to put the seventh mine into production, but it took $12,500,000 to put the eighth mine into production.

It took $12,500,000 to put the ninth mine into production, but it took $6,250,000 to put the tenth mine into production.

It took $6,250,000 to put the eleventh mine into production, but it took $3,125,000 to put the twelfth mine into production.

It took $3,125,000 to put the thirteenth mine into production, but it took $1,562,500 to put the fourteenth mine into production.

In an effort to complete the evacuation of the Basque capital, Franco's army is moving toward Bilbao, toward the Santander highway to cut off the last remaining avenue of escape for the beleaguered Basques.

To the east, the insurgents held virtually all the territory up to the city edge and north along the Nervion river to the Bay of Biscay. The main body of General Finlay's army was in the quarter around Galdakao, the important highway junction only five miles southeast of Bilbao. The city was in the hands of the Basque capital.

The entire coastal plain, northeast of Bilbao to the Bay of Biscay, was swept clear of Basque and Austrian defenders, smoothing out the salient.

MUST PAY FEED BILL

Cattle raisers were reported as desiring the horses moved as the space required for other purposes, but before the horses are released a balance of the feed bill, totaling $100,000, must be paid. Some payments have been made on account of the bill.

The C.N.R. has instructions to release the horses on order of Eric Photo, M.P. for the district. He has indicated that he was looking after the horses for the province and that he had no personal interest in the matter whatsoever.

The horses are consuming one ton of hay a day, representing a cost of $100,000. The feed bill has been reduced to $130,000 a day since the 12 horses were shipped to Peoria, Ill., for sale.

MEMBERS WANT HIGHWAY PROBE

MOTION WILL PROBABLY BE TALKED OUT

Ministers Oppose Any Investigation At Present Session of House

The present, this is a superficial scratching of the surface to get the idea over to the public and have the public understand it is all about.

FROM INSIDE

"Since the autonomous power was given to the province there have been charges, counter-charges and other matters and there is only one way this vexed question can be settled and that is from the inside by the minister in charge, if he is capable."

The minister believed that when he took over the department, this was to be settled matter. "I want to say that this is no job for me," he said.

He declared that he was now in a position, if given a chance, to determine how it came about that the people of this province had spent $15,000,000 on highways and why they had so little to show for it.

"Now the season if half way around and we are not sure it will be hampered if the staff is interrupted by this investigation," he said.

TOOK FIVE MONTHS

He pointed out that it had taken five months to establish the information for a return on the highway department and that this regulation also called for a probe into the Jager highway, so the same holds good for this.

The information is not available, he said. "It will take some time to investigate it will be available in a few days. I am now in operation with respect to road building, and if not sufficiently convincing in themselves to prove the truth of the statements which I am now making, I will insist on a thorough investigation."

"When that investigation is made it will throw a very vivid illumination around that most wretched incident and condemnation written into the Bank of Canada report by Graham Towns, with respect to the sloppy wastefulness and extravagance and loose administration of the former Liberal government. It will throw a very important light on the statement that the U.F.A. government failed to arrest the devastating influence of the 'regulation' handed on to them by the Liberal administration. Their failure, it caused the disintegration and downfall of the U.F.A. government."

TO DESTRUCTION

"That failure on the part of the government will bring it to the point of destruction. I have nothing to hide. My whole attitude in this matter from the time that I took over this department was to get to the bottom of the leaks and abuses."

E. MacLellan, S.C. Insfalk, declared that he spoke on this resolution with mixed feelings. The chairman of the public accountants committee had declined the request of a member for a meeting of the committee.

SOMETHING WRONG

"It must be evident that something is wrong in the highway department is not satisfactory in my mind. There is something wrong in the public works or any other department, the investigation should be held. If there is anything wrong, it is necessary for the members of the legislature to know about it."

"If anti-dating the investigation is necessary then I am in favor of it. It is ridiculous to say that we should cover up a matter up. As members of the house it is our duty to say that the facts are as they are, in order to inform the minister and the department, and the members of the house are honest with ourselves. I should say that we should have this investigation."

D. M. Duggan, Conservative leader, recalled that in his address to the speech from the throne, he had stated that there existed in the public mind the thought that something was wrong in the public works department and at that time he suggested a judicial inquiry.

URGES OPPOSITE

He was surprised to hear the minister declare that such a probe would create suspicion, not create it.

Mr. Duggan agreed with Mr. MacLellan that it was a somewhat unusual procedure for a chairman of a committee to refuse the request of a member for a meeting of a house standing committee.

Mr. Duggan declared that when he made his previous statement in the house he had defined the information regarding need of a probe and he had none now. But he did have a large number of letters, which he had not discussed, but these all indicated need of an inquiry.

Continuing, Mr. Duggan agreed that this was a complex problem. It required expert assistance to bring out a probe.

"I feel and still feel that the proper course is a commission," he said. "If the minister feels he should go back to the early days of the province I have no objection. But it must be remembered that the complaints at the present administration, and we must not obscure the issue by introducing dead material."

ALL INVOLVED

"Every minister is involved and the premier and the provincial treasurer and others and they should see if there is anything in the charge. It should be shown

APPOINTMENTS QUESTIONED IN LEGISLATURE

Livestock Branch Not To Be Closed Tremblay Is Informed

There is no intention on the part of the provincial agriculture department of closing the livestock branch and it has been merged with the minister's office, according to information supplied the legislature at the request of J. H. Tremblay, Liberal, Groulx.

The minister further stated that he considers the livestock industry "one of the greatest industries in this province, if not the greatest."

The minister added that the livestock branch being merged with the minister's office, it was unnecessary to retain the services of Mr. Holdsworth, livestock commissioner and chief clerk of the branch and for 23 years a civil servant.

Mr. Holdsworth had been given leave of absence until Nov. 1 and at that time he will be eligible for reappointment.

He said that the superintending board would "most likely grant Mr. Holdsworth $30 a month, which is the $30,000 at present he is entitled to $28 a month."

GETS WAR PENSION

Answering a question as to whether Mr. Holdsworth was a partially disabled soldier the minister replied that "I understand he is receiving a war pension amounting to $104.25 a month."

Mr. Mullin, answering a question as to whether the new field in charge of the branch had qualifications, the minister replied that "I understand he has been in the livestock business in this province for 30 years."

Referring to G. Vetter, who is reported to have been placed in charge of the district veterinarian, Mr. Mullin, in reply to a question, stated that Mr. Vetter was dismissed from the farm loan board.

Rimby's 'New' Man Is Dead At Age Of 77

RIMBY, Alta., June 16.—George Rimby, 77, died here today as the "New Man" is dead.

Coming from South Dakota 35 years ago and settling in the Rimby district and during that time he was a modest fortune.

He never voted, never went to church; never attended public functions and never had medical attention, friends related at his funeral here.

May 30, 1936, along with W. H. Wallace, who is now game commissioner in his department.

Continuing the Minister said that "these men were destined to make room for the following period, S. Thompson, defeated Liberal candidate 1933 election, Peace River; J. A. Lees, defeated Liberal candidate 1933 election, Asquith; J. McCaig, defeated Liberal candidate, 1933 election, Minitaire."

Mr. Mullin declared that Mr. Vetter was never a district agriculturalist, but had technical training although he never had any experience with extension work under the supervision of the Dominion or provincial agricultural departments, or any university. He had 13 years practical farming experience.

The minister said the transfer of the game game from the agriculture department to the lands and mines department last July and its transfer back last month was "a matter of government policy in each case."

The new game commissioner, declared the minister, received a salary of $3,000 a year, less deductions and had "in my opinion all the necessary qualifications required by the game commissioner."

The minister said the newly appointed far tax collector for Edmonton is Duncan McKay, who had been a far dealer and who had been in the employ of the branch but left "of his own accord to go into partnership with another in the far business. The minister said he did not now hold a far dealer's license issued by the branch."

Tom Boag, who has been appointed as a salaried game guard, has in my opinion all the necessary qualifications required for the position of game guardian," he added.

NEW FINANCE IS SOUGHT BY HAIL BOARD

Banks Will Not Meet Prof. Following Terms, Minister Asserts

Following announcement the Alberta Municipal Hall Board was seeking operations for this year on account of financial insecurity. Hon. R. E. Low stated in the legislature Tuesday that some new system of financing was being sought.

The minister said the province had submitted a proposal to pay the bank of Canada of Commerce $50,000 to reduce the bank's bank loans to $100,000 while the bank applied to the bank for a credit of $50,000, from which would be met obligations for this year. This proposal was on the basis that during the year insurance would be written covering 1,000,000 acres and involving a risk of $50,000.

Board borrowings are guaranteed by the government and it was found by the government that none of the banks to which application was made for funds would meet the terms.

The Minister declared that "It is estimated that of the taxes levied and hypothecated to the bank, some $100,000 is uncollectable and while it is evident that the bank would write a larger volume of business this year, there is little likelihood of it improving the position. Assuming the bank would not exceed its per cent of the risk, namely, $500,000, the borrowings from the bank would be increased by this amount and probably only $100,000, or 25 per cent of this amount, would be repaid from collections this year."

NOTED BRITISH AGRICULTURIST SPEAKS TO 300

Arthur C. Street Told Of Farming in the Old Country

Arthur C. Street, a tall, slender farmer from the Old Country, who lives through a life of self and is even a fond of telling people who he likes it, spoke to three hundred people at the Banquet Hall, Tuesday, on the subject of farming in the old country.

Applause rang through the hall as the English lecturer ended a speech in which philosophy had been blended with wit in a deft and masterful style.

Hon. Duncan Marshall, Ontario minister of agriculture, was present as farming's best friend, and President W. A. Kerr, in moving the chairman, was a charmingly simple man of old superlatives and adjectives.

One of the most delightful speeches we have ever heard.

"Some time ago Stanley Baldwin called me to his office and told me to go to him for an hour about what he should do to British agriculture," continued the English farmer-author now on a national tour.

"He told me that my policy appeared to advocate buying wheat to feed him for an hour about what he should do to British agriculture," continued the English farmer-author now on a national tour.

"Write a clever brilliant book, and when it is described as such I will be glad to see it," said the English farmer-author now on a national tour.

"But if you ever get any ideas, you will drop me a postcard, won't you?"

BALDWIN VERY WISDOM
"Yes, that was wise and great man is very wise. I never learned anything at Westminster. All he ever learned was enough to get to Worcester. And he will be the first one to admit it."

"I learned something from the country, too. I have never yet seen fit to send him a postcard."

"Britain always has been ill-placed," he continued, "and it has made such a success of politics that it has realized that it is not like chess, a logical game, but is rather like poker."

"And political sense is nurtured in the countryside, not in the town. The art of government is learned not knowing how to do right, but knowing when to do it."

THREE DECISIONS
"An old justice of the peace told me before I left for Canada that he had just spent a day that was like a week. He had handed down three decisions, two of them were grossly unjust and the third just barely legal."

"He had defended himself by saying he was not going in at all that day and not have any sense done."

"When justice is administered in the country by a man who knows his people it is dealt out according to its spirit, not according to the letter or as a bit of machinery."

"One of the funniest I saw at a banquet at which several politicians were talking about during the milk surplus. My farming colleague slept through all the speeches and when he was called upon, he drew a bucket next morning the would do him to solve the milk surplus than all the politicians in England put together."

"It is a very government has, though. The minister one does anything sensible it says we've got to stop it."

NEED FARMING
"We need farming because it gives a nation faith and dignity. Country people use machinery, instead of serving it. No farmer in England, for example, would so forget his sense or dignity as to run up a car. What are the moving steps there?"

"City folks are pretty apt to believe that the only God is man, and that he is a pretty clever devil."

"But no farmer would ever plant a seed if he didn't have faith in something greater and nobler than man."

"Think too, of what a farmer and his work mean to a nation's beauty, nature weaves the fabric which clothes the countryside but farming makes the pattern, and if you take away the farmer there will be a change in English scenery that no Englishman dares to contemplate."

SHORTEST ROUTE
"In 1937 the world is afflicted with the fear of the age-fear of war and fear of famine. In case of any war Great Britain looks to Canadian agriculture for help and to save life the map Canada is the shortest and safest route, not only one in fact that does not pass any hostile shore."

"From every point of view it is necessary for the Old Country to keep up a flourishing livestock industry, but wheat-growing will always be with it, a difficult never the befall and end-all of its efforts."

"Great Britain looks to Canadian agriculture for consideration and help," he concluded as he appealed for all farmers to regard their profession as a sacrifice of soul set apart for noble ends.

$250,000 In Cattle Goes Under Hammer

EDMONTON, Kan. June 16—Cattle kings and dirt farmers pushed each other to the limit today as 800 head of show cattle blue-bloods went under the auction hammer. Qualified livestock authorities predicted the sale, discussing the world famous Hereford sons of the late Robert H. Hazlett, would bring $250,000.

Charges Attack

In negative mood it pictured pretty Mary Mitchell, 20-year-old, who was charged that she was attacked at a Banquet Hall for movie saloons has started a new storm in the everyday film industry. Miss Mitchell told District Attorney Burns Files that she answered a studio call, believing that she was to take part in a movie. Instead, she said, she and many other young girls found themselves cast in the role of entertainers at the sex party.

$47,49.70 Is Paid Mothers' Allowance

Mothers' allowance payments during September of 1936 totalled $47,49.70, according to figures given by the legislature on Tuesday by Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health.

These figures were given as a recently completed month, and were laid before the house during discussion of departmental estimates to show the cost of this service.

The average payment to mothers was $23.57 and the number of mothers in receipt of payments totalled 1,848.

The number of children affected totalled 4,242.

Hon. Duncan Marshall paid tribute to the boys and girls saying, "We have in Canada today the best group of boys and girls we have ever had. Entitled to such a future."

Arthur G. Street spoke briefly, using that in the struggle to improve material conditions, the spiritual, recreational and spiritual things should not be forgotten.

Public speaking, presented by Robert Gardner on behalf of the board of directors of the U.F.A. and U.F.W.A.: 1. Hazel Johnston, Corcoran; 2. Morton McElroy, Calgary; 3. Harvey Hicks, Clover Bar; 4. ## BANQUET ENDS FARM YOUNG PEOPLE'S WEEK

Lieut.-Gov. Bowen Extols Blessings of Rural Life As Builder

Concluding the nineteenth annual Farm Young People's week at the University of Alberta a banquet took place in the Banquet Hall Tuesday evening, when among the many prominent guests were His Honor Lieutenant-Governor J. C. Bowen and Mrs. Bowen. Hon. Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture for Ontario, Dean and Mrs. W. A. R. Kerr, and Arthur G. Street, author.

During the evening awards were given during the past week were presented and speeches of congratulatory to the assembled group of 306 young people were made.

Tribute to the value of farm life was expressed by Lieut. Gov. J. C. Bowen who referred to his own boyhood days on a farm in Ontario. With the leisure time given by long winter evenings on the farm the young people have an excellent opportunity to prepare themselves for later life, he said.

Urging the young people to make use of their leisure time he said, "The doors of opportunity are always open to those of honesty of purpose, integrity of character and idealism."

Following the addresses, Donald Cameron, chairman, called upon H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture to present to Blanche Paulson of Aker and Leslie Drayton of Pictouville the two scholarships for a year's tuition at either of the province's two agricultural schools. The scholarships were awarded by the provincial department of agriculture on the basis of highest marks scored in a year's study course at home and in a lecture series taken during the past week.

Other awards presented were Grain judging prizes presented by W. H. Boyle, on behalf of the Alberta, Wheat Pool; 1. Gordon Balthorn, Wetaskinaw; 2. Sybil Anderson, Wayne; 3. Stanley Madge, Corcoran.

Half Breed Squatters Disturb City Council

Commissioners were ordered by city council Tuesday to take action to abate the nuisance created by a small colony of half-breeds squatting on city-owned property in Jasper Place. It was reported an unsanitary condition prevailed among the squatters, many of whom are from outside Edmonton.

Commissioners reported that the federal department of Indian affairs had advised the city that the Dominion had no jurisdiction over the colony since it was composed of half-breeds. The federal government is only responsible for full-blooded Indians. It was also reported that the provincial government had not yet answered a letter by commissioners asking that the province assume responsibility for the half-breeds who are living in makeshift shelters at the city's western limit.

Following the addresses, Donald Cameron, chairman, called upon H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture to present to Blanche Paulson of Aker and Leslie Drayton of Pictouville the two scholarships for a year's tuition at either of the province's two agricultural schools. The scholarships were awarded by the provincial department of agriculture on the basis of highest marks scored in a year's study course at home and in a lecture series taken during the past week.

Looking Them Over

By Jack Kelly

Mickey Leaves
Frisco Bound
Steel In Him

TODAY Mickey McGuire and his manager, Freddie Osborne, are en route for a while in the fall along the U.S. Pacific coast with San Francisco as their objective. They left yesterday and hope that they will be able to keep active until the early fall.

Osborne considers Mickey the most promising fighter he has ever trained and there are plenty of Edmonton fans who are firmly convinced that the black-haired Irishman with the infectious smile is headed for the top of the heap. In his fights here, Mickey weighed in as a middle-weight and scored polished knockouts that made him an immediate favorite. During the past two months though he has been put through a carefully planned training program by Osborne that has cut his weight until he can make the welter division. He lost none of his power or speed and is actually stronger now than when he was a middle.

For the time being, boxing promotions here have come to a point where they will have to mark time for a while. Mickey, George Shaskis and Eddie McSparran are at a stand where there are no more Alberta or Saskatchewan opponents for them. This means that fighters will have to be brought in from the U.S. at a cost that attendance men will not warrant.

It is with the hope of establishing Mickey's claim that his manager is taking him down the Pacific Coast. He is ready to try his wares in faster company and needs the experience to continue developing. George Shaskis is spending the summer in the far north with the idea of getting back into the fight game this fall. He felt that he was not quite ready yet to start a campaign such as McGuire is now on. Eddie McSparran feels much the same.

Osborne believes that a fighter's mental attitude is the most important factor of all. If he doesn't feel that he can make the grade, no amount of training will make him win. In this respect, Mickey McGuire is blessed with an ideal temperament. He is not cocky or conceited. You never hear him mention his wins. But he feels sure that eventually he can get somewhere in the teaching business.

"I know I have plenty to learn, but the only way I'll learn is to fight men who are better than I am," he explained before leaving. "I'll probably get thumped around a lot while I'm learning, but I'll take it and I'll be giving all I've got at the time. We haven't got much money right now, but we are going along with your head up something always seems to come along at the right time." He grinned briefly, almost ashamed of letting this piece of philosophy slip out.

He Has Convincing Ways

THERE is a big vein of steel in Mickey's make-up that makes me think he is going a lot farther in the fight game than even his most ardent supporters expect. The other night we were talking reflectively about how unreasonably stubborn people can be at times and Mickey contrived a couple of incidents that showed up the steel in him like a knife. He explained he had no money.

A year ago Mickey was making his way back he could to the Kirkland Lake Mines for a job. He didn't have a cent of money. Thumbing rides, he eventually found himself some 70 miles from the mines in the northern Ontario backwoods. He walked all one day without getting a lift and the last few hours were through a driving rain. He had no blankets, just the clothes he stood in. There were no farms, nothing but the timber on both sides of the trail leading to Kirkland Lake. At last he saw a tent ahead with a fire. Two city anglers were cooking their supper.

Mickey went up to them and asked if he could get warm at their fire. They scowled at him and grudgingly consented. He had been without food for nearly two days and he was starving. The smell of the supper was too much. There was plenty of food, but he asked if he could do anything for them for a feed—chop wood, wash the dishes and so on.

"Nothing doing," snapped one of the anglers. "We don't want any bum hanging around here. You're warm now, so scam out and keep moving, scamp."

Mickey asked his piece then. "Listen, I'm not a bum and I haven't eaten for close to two days. I haven't got any money to pay you with, but I offered to work for a meal and that's fair in any man's country. You fellows have plenty and there's another place within mile or two where I can get a meal. Now give me some chuck and I'll do any job you ask. If you don't I'll try you both out and help myself, scamp."

After a minute of glaring on both sides, the anglers finally relented and doled out some food. The meal was finished they were all on semi-friendly terms, but the two city dudes refused to let Mickey even sleep by their fire. Although they didn't ask it, he wanted the dishes and then they told him that he was an old cobbler or a mix or so on where he could sleep. Eventually he got up and left with his pockets full.

The next morning a truck bound for the mines came along. Mickey took no chances. He stood right in the middle of the trail and stopped it. He explained to the driver that he had to get to Kirkland Lake. He got a job with the mine and he had to get there. The driver was indignant when Mickey mentioned paying him again. "The driver flatly refused to give a lift. Mickey jumped into the seat and laid down the ultimatum that if the driver didn't get him where he was going to get a crack on the jaw. When Mickey issued an ultimatum like that, it sounds like mighty bad medicine. The driver got going. Inside a few miles, they had both thawed out with mutual apologies. By the time they reached Kirkland Lake they were pals. The driver was indignant when Mickey mentioned paying him again.

"When you find a 15-year-old kid that can stand on his own hind legs in a pinch like he did and get what is fair and reasonable, you have a man who is going places."
